EASY LATIN PLAYS

BY

M. L. NEWMAN

LONDON: G. BELL AND SONS, LTD.
YORK HOUSE, PORTUGAL STREET, W.C.
1913

OXFORD: HORACE HART
PRINTER TO THE UNIVERSITY

PREFACE

'Mater Gracchorum' is published at the request of teachers who attended the Summer School of Latin at Bangor. The play was written to serve as a reading-book for an Upper Third Form during the second and third terms of the year in which Latin was begun. A year's course of lessons in Roman History had preceded the learning of Latin. All the work of the class (frequent drill in grammar, oral work by question and answer, and simple-sentence construction) was based upon the text of the play.

'Gemini' was similarly used in a class of younger girls during the second term of the first year.

Scaena I. apud Corneliam.

Cornēlia; G. Gracchus; famulae. Tib. Gracchus.

Gai. māter mea, cūr cessat Tiberius? quid agit? solitārius iam semper ego in Campō me exerceō, vel in silvīs ferās captō solitārius.

Cor. frāter tuus, mī fīlī, prō patriā nostrā cōgitat et labōrat. nūm vīs patris vestrī fīlium, Africānī nepōtem, esse dēgenerem? num ille vēnātiōnibus studēbit, dum miseriīs premuntur cīvēs Rōmānī?

[clāmōrēs audiuntur]

populus (extra). euge, euge! salvē Gracche!
ecce Tibērius, tribūnus plēbis!

Gai. cūr māter . . .?

Cor. exaudī! quid audiō? quid clāmant?

[intrat Tiberius]

Ti. salvē, māter! salvēte!

Cor. mī fīlī, quid audiēbam? quid clāmābat populus?

Ti. māter mea, populus Rōmānus mē tribūnum plēbis creāvit.

Cor. tu ergo, mī fīlī, servābis Rōmam. senātum comprimēs, cīvēs fovēbis.
